Homework should be completed on the night it is allocated. This is to ensure pupils' time is as equally balanced as possible. In some cases, this means pupils will be set work on one day and required to complete it on a different day.

Pupils should aim to spend the amount of time shown above on their homework. If you are spending considerably less time than above, you may not be achieving as much as you can.

Independent learning and revision should be taking place throughout the year. If, for whatever reason, a pupil "has no homework", they should revise a topic from that evening's homework schedule.
